Hi there,

Phily again.

Everything you've built in Zerve can become an output. Three ways to ship your work:

1. AI Reports. Generate shareable, interactive reports grounded in one or more of your projects. The agent sits alongside the report as an expert on the content, so anyone reading it can ask questions.
2. Deployments. Apps (Streamlit, Gradio, Dash, or your own framework) and APIs (FastAPI, Flask, or custom) straight from your analysis. The agent builds the whole thing for you. Preview it before deploying and set your own DNS.
3. Schedules. When a project needs to run on a recurring basis, set the frequency: daily, weekly, monthly, or custom. Get notified on breaks or failures, with logs on every run.
